

WHAT DO WE DO NOW?

ANSWERS FOR THE HOUSE COMMITTEE

How do you treat situations when members act ungentlemanly, unladylike or disorderly in the social quarters or during social sessions of the lodge? We have created the following scenario for you to follow step by step.

Joe Smith, an officer of your lodge, is in the social quarters late one evening and is cursing and shouting obscenities at several members. Brother Jones, a member, comes up to the bar to order a drink and asks Joe Smith to keep his comments to himself. Joe Smith throws a punch at Brother Jones. It is obvious that Joe is disorderly and members of your lodge are complaining to the administrator about his behavior. What should you do?

It is the responsibility of the House Committee of your lodge to prepare and formulate rules and regulations to govern the operation of the social quarters. It is a violation of Section 48.9 of the General Laws of the Supreme Lodge to engage in vulgar, profane, indecent or disorderly conduct. Therefore, Joe Smith has violated the General Laws and must be dealt with according to the General Laws. However, proper procedures must be followed. Listed below are the procedures the lodge should follow to properly comply with the General Laws.

1. Joe Smith may and should be suspended by the House Committee from all social activities pending a hearing. He can attend no social events of the lodge, including lodge social events off premises. The only activity Joe Smith can attend is an official lodge meeting, arriving no earlier than 10 minutes before the meeting, and leaving no later than 10 minutes after the conclusion of the meeting.
2. The House Committee must schedule a hearing, notifying Joe Smith in writing of the date, time and place of the hearing at least five (5) actual days in advance of the hearing (not counting the day of mailing or the day of the hearing). Notices must include specific details of the ungentlemanly, unladylike, or disorderly conduct, such as when and where the conduct occurred, who was involved and the rule violated, etc. (See attached sample letter)
3. The House Committee must conduct an investigation into the incident, which may include written statements from those involved and witnesses. If it is a very serious matter which could possibly lead to a criminal or civil proceeding, written and signed statements are highly recommended.
4. Joe Smith must appear at the hearing and be afforded an opportunity to present any witnesses or evidence to refute the charge(s). If Joe Smith does not appear at the hearing, his suspension is continued until such time as he appears at a hearing. At the hearing, he should be allowed to present his side of the incident. This is not a disciplinary proceeding. Joe is not entitled to be represented by counsel or cross-examine witnesses. Decisions are in the "discretion" of the House Committee but must be fair, just, equitable and consistent.
5. If Joe Smith disagrees with the decision of the House Committee, he can submit an appeal in writing to the General Governor, Steven F. Greene. This appeal should be sent to the General Governor's office, Moose International, Mooseheart, IL 60539. With his letter of appeal, he should send the notice of the hearing that was sent to him by the House Committee and any other pertinent information. The General Governor will investigate his appeal and inform him in writing of his decision. House Committee decisions are never overturned except when proper procedures weren't followed or there was an abuse of discretion.

6. This procedure is for violations of Section 48.9 only. It does not apply to charges preferred under the chapters entitled, "Disciplinary Proceedings". For more information on filing disciplinary charges, call the General Governor's office for assistance.
